Quinta da Roêda Serikos 2017

95 POINTS

The warmth of the vintage comes through in the wine's notes of blueberry pie and raspberry coulis, but there's nothing dried or dimpled about them; it tastes instead, as if the vines were refreshed by the rain that came in early July, and their deep roots survived on that moisture for the rest of the season. A sturdy vintage, with notes of black-raspberry seeds, tobacco and ginger adding complexity to the structure, this has a long life ahead
